BIOGRAPHY

Vy is a psychology graduate from Vietnam, holding a B.A. in Psychology with very good distinction. She has been involved in research on adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) and mental health, with a focus on mediating mechanisms in adult populations. Her work has been published in peer-reviewed journals indexed in Scopus (Q2–Q4). During her studies, she completed a clinical internship at the Ho Chi Minh City Regional Center of Forensic Psychiatry, an institution directly managed by the Ministry of Health of Vietnam, where she was trained in psychological assessment using instruments such as the MMPI, MMSE, HAM-A/D, and Wechsler scales. She later gained one year of experience in a clinical setting as a trainee in psychological counseling and psychotherapy within a cognitive-behavioral framework. Vy is broadly interested (but not limited to) in the intersection of cognitive and clinical psychology, and aims to specialize in cognitive and neuro-oriented research as part of her long-term academic trajectory.
